

Spotlighting For Gliders

THE Wildlife Preservation Society of Queensland set up a program called Glidernet held at Tiaro Memorial Hall recently.

Coordinator Ben Holmes told 23 interested people about the different gliders and their life styles. Five of the six gliders are found in the Wide Bay area. Because so little is known about the distribution and numbers of gliders in Queensland, Ben is encouraging people who attended to carry on with this work. Interested persons can phone WPSQ on 3221 0194.
